Swinging into the seventies

Foreword

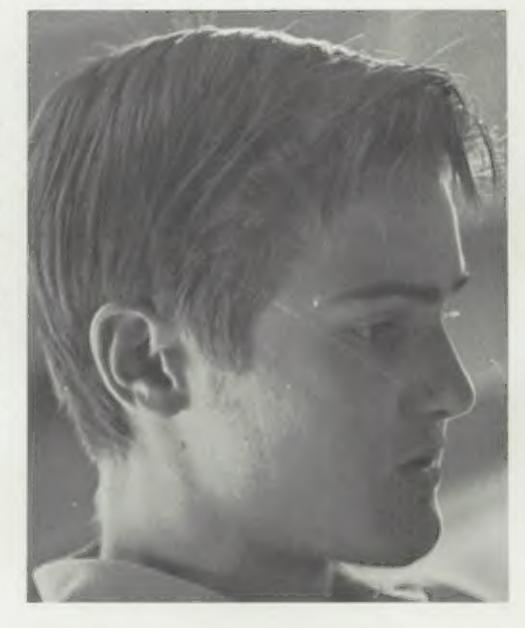

"One small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind," said U. S. Astronaut Neil Armstrong, the first man to walk on the lunar surface. During the past ten years man has made outstanding progress in the fields of science, medicine and manufacturing. He has seen the tragic assasinations of three prominent American figures. Undoubtedly the most memorable of these events took place July 20, 1969, when three U.S. astronauts landed on the moon.

What will the 1970's bring? For man, a cure for cancer or a solution to end starvation in Asia. For the U.S., perhaps a peace in Vietnam. For the students of Washington High School more state championships may be attained and better opportunities to reach goals may be found as we swing into the 70's.

In his usual pleasant manner, Mr. Bill Jones stops to talk with students who are having their lunch in the shade of the patio area.

Listening to a foreign language tape, Gary Jenkins strives to increase his vocabulary in one of the WHS language labs.

What will the new decade hold for grads?

Students stop to talk before going to next class.

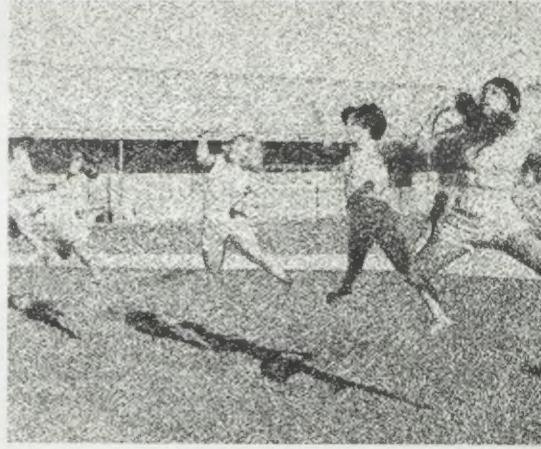

Activities

With the arrival of a new decade, Washington's students participated in many of the same school activities, but noted various changes in the WHS campus. While students enjoyed their summer vacation, new roofing and sidewalks were added to the school. The new kiosk near the patio area and calendar in the cafeteria informed the students of the many things happening throughout the school year. To help protect WHS from vandalism, a new alarm system was installed. The new mall built partly from funds raised by the student body was the most impressive addition to the campus. For many years to come the mall will take part in the lives of the students as a place where many school functions are held.

To comply with the changes in fashions, the past school year was the first year the new WHS dress code went into effect, allowing the student body to swing into the 70's wearing the latest styles. Girls often wore mini-culottes and pantdresses, while the boys were allowed to grow sideburns and wear sandals.

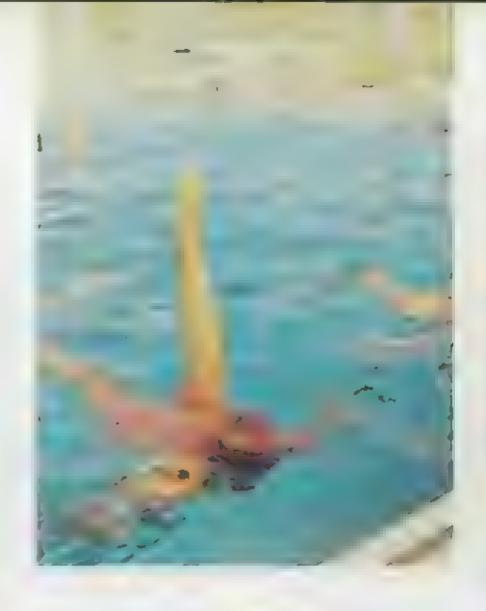

Fall brings school to life

NO LEAVES are changing color, and there is no frost on the pumpkin. Yet there are certain unmistakable signs that fall has returned to the Valley of the Sun and to Washington High. Early rising neighbors can hear the sound of the band as it practices before school. Business at nearby drive-insingreases

STRANGE SIGNS begin to appear on campus such as "Cream the Colts" and "Cage the Lions." Temperatures in the 100's bring complaints about hot or cold classrooms. School is in session, football season is here. It's fall once again.

School yawns and stretches

IN THE MORNING, a variety of activities is offered for the students of WHS. At the beginning of the year freshmen were seen scrubbing the Ram plaque with tooth brushes for initiation. Before the bell rings for school to start, students are found driving cars for drivers' ed, while some prefer the library in which to finish homework.

THE PATIO AREA offers a relaxed atmosphere where students can talk about upcoming events or the last football game. The snackbar provides a place to buy a morning snack so that the students can fight their ever-present hunger.

SOUNDS OF MUSIC can be heard in the distance as members of the band practice for the Friday night game. Pom girls dance through their routines, while the cheerleaders try out new cheers that will help boost the moral of the teams.

Few students start out the day with empty stomachs thanks to the well supplied snackbar which has a variety of items including do nuts, milk, rolls, and, of course, candy and gum

Congregating at the oval in the morning, WHS students often sit and talk with friends

The library provides many students such as Greg Bardwell, Paul Donus, and Glen Bobo with a quiet place to finish their homework before class starts

Working to improve their singing technique, members of the WHS charus practice for a concert

Practice leads to perfection

BAND MUSIC blaires, girls in tights go tumbling across the turf, the sound of singing fills the air A casual visitor might at first think that he had stumbled upon a road company of the Greatest Show on Earth. Actually he would be on the Washington High campus almost any morning or evening watching practice for various groups

CHEERLEADERS, POM PON GIRLS, twirlers, and Rambleairs who are chosen after numerous practice sessions and tryouts are far from secure once they have made the squads. Striving constantly to perfect their routines, they practice and practice

MEMBERS OF ATHLETIC teams must also keep in shape by long hours of practice, often under the merciless Arizona sun when temperatures are well over 100 degrees. Most any season finds both boys and girls practicing as many as five or six different sports on any day

Working in the ag department, Craig Snyder unloads some plants from the trailer for a project

Running laps around the football field aids cross country runners by keeping them in shape

Practicing pom dances are Barbara Nelson, Jan Woods, Janet Jones, Lisa Muser, Debbie Lawson, Connie Traber, Arlene Ellis, Desi Van De Pol, Kaye Killebrew, and Kim Yingling. Keeping arms straight and toes pointed are rules that are strictly enforced by Mrs. Irene Kemp, sponsor of the WHS pom pon line.

Marching to their music, members of the band practice in the morning. The intricate formations performed by the members demand patience and hard work

After school's a great time

THE SPIRIT of Washington High still throbs after the final bell rings. Small groups of students congregate in front of the gymfor a last minute chat before the bus arrives to take them home.

TRYING OUT for "Harvey", learning to cook and sew, and putting a radio together were part of the many extracurricular activities offered by clubs on the WHS camous WINNING A game, earning a letter, or accomplishing a task builds pride in students.

Reading posteris lights on a risk and the first kind of the locker area put variety into an average school day for students in the locker area.

After the final school bell rings, many students who ride the bus home stand and talk with friends about the day's events while they wait to board the bus

Pausing to drink cold water is one way of beating the heat on a typical Phoenix school day

Standing in the shadow of the sign to avoid the glare of the sun, Darlene Cunning-ham holds an armload of books while awaiting the arrival of her ride

To encourage school spirit Nancy Dotson, Kathy Hirschy, and Francine Hahn put up posters for the game on Friday in hopes that they will boost the team to victors in the final moments of this spirited pep assembly the six members of the varsity cheer squad combine with the ten pom members to lead the student body in the WHS fight song. This was one of the few football assemblies held in the gymnasium.

The 1969-70 pom line often performs clever skits in the pep assemblies before school. In this interesting skit, Connie Trabei does her thing" by representing an electric mixer

At a morning pep assembly, varsity cheerleaders Darcel Roether and Donna Kitchens lead the spirited Rams in a new cheer

Assemblies mean lots of action

"EVERYONE COME to the pep rally!" Megaphone in hand, Francine Hahn scoured the WHS campus like a cowboy rounding up strays. Soon she and the other cheerleaders had gathered a portion of the student body into the gymnasium to see another spirited Friday morning pep assembly

ONLY A couple of the morning pep rallies could be held in the gym during the football season. Throughout most of the season the gym remained closed to allow time for a new floor to be installed before the basketball season started. The rest of the pep assemblies were held in front of the gym so that the Ram fans could still boost the team and school spirit. These rallies often began with a couple of cheers followed by a skit done by the pom, Rambleaires, or cheer squads. Occasionally a member of the team or a coach would speak to the students about the team they would soon face.

School dances follow games Friday nights

Micling in crowds after the football came, Debbie Kle isle and Cirids Ports patiently award their turn to be admitted to the school dance.

That excitement runs high at football games is certainly proven by the expressions worn on the speciators' faces at a WHS game

EXCITEMENT RUNS high at football games as Ram fans encourage the team on to victory Stewards of content blanket students when a touchdown is made. Even though the WHS football team has not had a successful season, the TOS of the bring a state championship.

FROM INSIDE the WHS gymnasium vibrations could be briard of a band getting with red up to play for the Friday night school dance Outside, the crowd of students looked around to see who was going that night as they waited to be admitted into the gym

WASHINGTON HIGH certainly "swung into the 70's" literally as at least one dance was held each month by one of the clubs on campus Students grooved to the heavy sounds of such bands as "Sleepy Hollow" and "Ceramic Fire." To help raise more money at the dances, the sponsors sold cookies and soft drinks to the students. Earlier in the school year, some of the dances had to be held in the cafeteria to allow time for a new floor to be installed in the gym

Big campus keeps WHSers on the go

RAMSEY RAM and Ula Ewe, a typical WHS couple, find that keeping their romance going during the day is not an easy task. By the time Ula walked from the swimming pool, and Ramsey made it from ag class, there was barely time for a quick wave as, caught in the milling mob in the locker area, they were swept separately along to class.

TEACHERS were not usually sympathetic to tardy scholars, even though they might plead stuck lockers, broken legs, or advanced senility, so the rush was on every 55 minutes

Balancing his tray with one hand, Bain Cochran pays for his lunch Cafeteria meals cost 45 cents for students this year

It's "hurry up and wait" after the mad rush to get in line for a position in the cafeteria parade.

Lunchtime great but too short Rams complain

WHILE THEIR stomachs produce numerous gurgles and rumbles, the students shift restlessly in their seats. Soon all eyes are on the hands of the clock as the last seconds of the hour are ticked away. When the dismissal bell finally rings, the students hurry out of their seats to dash towards the cafeteria and hopefully get a place in the front of one of the long lunch lines. So begins another lunch break at WHS

SINCE THE LUNCH line seems increasingly longer every year, more students complained this year about the 35-minute lunch period. Some students claimed that by the time they endured the wait in the lines and watched others getting "cuts" ahead of them, there remained only a few minutes left before the bell ending the lunch break rang

Various kinds of signs are often posted in the cafeteria, this one welcomed the foreign exchange student from Sweden

A new SC project this year, the calendar in the caleteria informed students such as George Wilson, Joseph Hrostowski, and George Mc Nulty of the upcoming school activities each month

Many of the students prefer to eat their funches in the patio area, especially those who dine from the snack bar

Slab of concrete becomes beautiful

A5 WH5 SWUNG into the 70's, among the noticeable changes on campus was the addition of the new student facility, the mall

DEFINED AS "a public area often set with shade trees and designed as a promenade or as a pedestrian walk," mall was a word that was on everyone's lips as the area became a reality

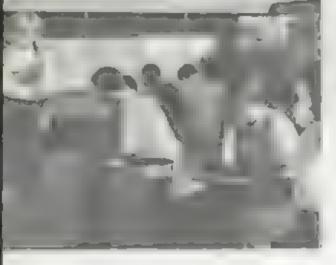

THE BRAINCHILD of Mr. Bill Jones, the mall was financed through available funds and money from an immensely successful student drive. Pouring of the concrete took place in December, and although students were happy to see that the work had gone so quickly, some expressed dismay at the results. Later when the trees, shrubs, and flowers were planted and concrete benches were added, their skepticism turned to pride.

AT A SPECIAL Sunday workday, all interested students met to help plant the shrubs and place the benches. A special tree planting ceremony preceded the workday

DESIGNED to take some of the traffic from the patio area, the mall gave students a place to chat or study, especially on days when irrigation or rain made the lawns unusable

Signs important as candidates vie for votes

"WINTER IS COMING so vote for someone who is warm and cuddly" read the sign. That someone was Richard Dobson, who was running for vice-president of the freshman class. Frosh evidently felt that Debbie Tanner filled the bill a little better and elected her.

HOWEVER, most candidates agreed that advertising paid off in the spirited class elections held in early October. Getting up early, candidates arrived at school, sleepy-eyed but with posters in hand as they searched for the most advantageous places to hang their signs.

BECAUSE there was no assembly to introduce the candidates, signs played an important part in the elections

Senior class SC representatives. Rick Morrison. Robin Sd. ver, Eric Cabson, and Toby Stapley, discuss money-raising projects to earn money for the Mall fund Drive.

When students put up posters during Moratorium, they had to sign them. Mike Roach and Terry Thompson added their signatures to a poster which said "Drive Carefulls."

Junior class representatives in SC are Sciences & France & France

1969 SC officers are Lanny Little, president, Mike Roacl Vice president, Doug Hatcher, treasurer, Cheryl Lewell, recording secretary, and Linda Hutchinson, corresponding secretary.

Informal student council meetings are held in the caleteria. President Lanny Little talks to a student while other members listen.

Council works on new mall

THE NEW mall was important to the 1969-70 student council as they sponsored several drives to raise money for its completion. Projects they sponsored for the mall included a fund-raising competition between classes, club donations and dances. That they were successful was evident as the new mall was built during the Christmas holidays. Not satisfied with on-campus beautification, they checked with city fathers to urge work on the 23rd Avenue side of the school with its unsightly irrigation ditch

ADVOCATION FREE speech, the student council in cooperation with the administration urged students to state their opinions through posters on the first Moratorium Day in October

TO LEARN more about other campus councils, the representatives participated in exchange sessions with other schools and attended student council conventions

Performing before the crowd at a football game are Ramblians Dariece Harwood, Judy Woods, Debbie Sticht, Debbie Borgo, and Bonnie Cline

Rambleairs add color to games with acts, suits

ONE OF THE teams calls for a time-out, and the action on the football field settles down momentarily. However, the activity on the sidelines does not stop, and the crowd pauses to watch Washington High School's five wonders, the Rambleairs

WITH AMAZING grace and agility, these girls execute many difficult stunts, including several that involve aerial somersaults and flips. They often perform at football and basketball games and with the WHS marching band at the State Fair and Band Day at the U of A. In Tucson, the five Rambleairs received a "superior" rating, the highest rating given.

EVEN RAMMIE, the WHS mascot, was included in their performance, as the girls often did front handsprings over his back during football games. Coached by Mrs. Mary Pappas, the 1969-70 Rambleair squad was composed of Bonnie Cline, Debbie Sticht, and Dariece Harwood, seniors, Debbie Borgo, junior; and Judy Woods, sophomore. Throughout most of the year, these girls practiced for an average of at least two hours every night

While executing a handspring over Darriece Harwood Debbie Sticht concentrates on good form during a Fri day might performance.

For most people, just the thought of doing the "splits would cause them to wilt, but to these girls, the "splits" is only an everyday exercise. They are Darlece Darwood, Bonnie Cline, Debbie Borgo, and Debbie Sticht.

This year the WHS pom pon line became larger than last year's line of eight. According to Mrs. Irene Kemp, pom instructor, each of the girls showed exceptional ability during tryouts so ten were chosen. These girls are (BOTTOM ROW) Desi Van De Pol. Kayi

Pom pon girls take top place at summer camp

"MAKE THAT KICK!" yelled the crowd, as the members of Washington High's pom pon line kicked practically above their own heads. As the ball sailed through the uprights and the Rams gained one more point, the ten pom pon girls, bedecked in purple and white, faced the crowd and began dancing to the WHS fight song

ALTHOUGH MOST of the other high schools in the Valley have more girls on their pom pon lines, Washington's use of difficult steps in their dances and restrictive qualifications for pom pon girls allow only a small number of girls to become members of the line. This restriction of members makes it easier for the girls to compose dances and keep together as they perform

WHILE AT summer camp, the pom girls competed against other pom lines in the state and won first place in their division. At Band Day in Tucson, the girls received an "Excellent" rating which is the equivalent of a "2" grade

Bursting through the crash poster held by members of the cheer squad, varsity Rams run onto the field football games provide much of the entertainment for students during the fai

Together with the majorettes and pom pon girls, the WHS marching band entertained the crowds that attended the footbal games. During the year the band also presented concerts.

Washington High's choruses participated in several night concerts throughout the year. For this concert, the members were slacks and shirts for some numbers, and choral gowns for others

Plenty to do on WHS campus

"THERE'S NEVER anything to do around here," That statement could hardly be said about afterhours life on the Washington High campus. With the arrival of school in September, the campus begins to buzz with life even when the school day is over. Many students find enjoyment after their classes by becoming a member of a club interesting to them. Other students enjoy themselves entertaining others. Such students as the girls on the pompon line, majorettes, Rambleaus, and members of the marching band spend much of their time practicing for their performances at the fall football games

EVENING CONCERTS by the WHS choruses, two different plays by the Masquers Club, and, of course, the numberous dances after the games are only a few of the many things happening throughout the school year. The first play presented to the student body was entitled "Harvey." A lively comedy, it was about a man who imagined that he had a six-foot tall rabbit friend. Using a patriotic theme, the first choral concert, conducted by Mr. Philip Shaw, began with the chorus members marching onto the stage holding small American flags. Songs such as "The Stars and Stripes Forever" were sung

ACADEMICS

"It remains for man, not the computer, to venture into the unknown." Rockets created by man zoom towards the moon Spaceships have been made possible only through science and technology. Along with science, a knowledge of mathematics is becoming increasingly vital to any student wishing to continue his education. The WHS curriculum offers four mathematics and five science courses.

A wide selection of topics ranging from sewing a dress to balancing an education round out the curriculum. Students have opportunities to prepare themselves for a vocation and acquire skills that will benefit them. Attitudes, abilities, and opinions formed during the high school years help develop a person into the individual that he will become

In addition to training the mind, the curriculum offers students a chance to improve their physical condition. In the P.E. department Rams can gain coordination, agility, and sportsmanship

Students listen as Mr. Effichny, drivers' ed teacher, expline the fundamentals of driving a car. Teaching orally as well as in nonstrating, he tries to impress the number of safe driving upon all the students. A variety of subjects pertaining to the human body is discussed in health trasses. Students in these classes receive instructions in emigency childbirth, and they are cautioned against the use of drugs and alcohol.

Geometry classes get new texts

ALTHOUGH ONLY one unit of mathematics is required for graduation from Washington High, the school offers many courses in the mathematics field. These include general math, beginning and advanced algebra courses, geometry, and trigonometry. A knowledge of at least basic math is vital to nearly everybody, from the budget-stretching housewife to the businessman challenged by the dollar-shrinking economy.

BOTH GEOMETRY and algebra 3-4 classes received brand new textbooks to study from this year. Although these new texts provided them with the latest teaching methods, the geometry and advanced algebra teachers sometimes preferred to use their own methods to teach their students

EVEN THOUGH they may have already had some experience with one during a chemistry class, the algebra 3-4 students learned how to use a slide rule. They were saved much of the time and written work involved when the same problems were figured by hand.

With concentration and determination in their stares. Mr. Taylor's algebra students listen to advice and directions given every day in algebra classes. Listening, learning and then applying what you comprehend are just a few of the many steps in algebra classes.

WHS offers four languages

RAISING YOUR hand to ask a question can be hazardous. That is, if you are a Spanish student and have to ask the question in Spanish. Conversing in a foreign language during a class increases the amount of practice that is necessary to master a language. Earphones, records, films and other audiovisual equipment help students to effectively learn to speak a language instead of a banal phrase such as "Si, senor". Spanish, French, and German offer four years of study, while Latin offers two years of study By taking a Latin course, students find that they are better able to understand English grammar.

PLAYING SOCCER and singing songs, help to create an interest in the culture and background of the country's language that a student is studying. Traditional Spanish songs are taught throughout the year in order to stimulate participation in classroom activities.

ALL FOUR languages sponsor clubs which students are encouraged to join. Carrying classroom study one step further, the clubs let students participate in the recreation that is popular in another country

Students taking a language realize some courses require more study than a control of the french language. Mrs. Diane German teaches French.

Science gears for seventies

SCALING ONE of the San Francisco Peaks, Mi Dave Swerdieger's advanced biology class ploughed through three feet of snow to reach the top of MI Humphrey. Field trips are planned each year in different science courses to encourage the students to become aware of the world around them

NEW FRESHMAN science books changed the course of study in Mr. Tom Pagel's class. "I think the books are better, because we have very little earth science — no other course like this is taught in school," commented Mr. Pagel as he referred to the new Earth Science textbook. Chemistry classes were not to be outdone; they received the new book, Chemistry: Experiments and Principles, Besides advanced biology, earth science, and chemistry WHS offers courses in physics and biology

English department curriculum features literature, grammar

Trying to remember the grammar that they learned in grade school, freshmen like Charlotte Francy find that there is more competition between students in high school classes

VARIOUS SUBJECTS are covered during the four years of English at WHS. Seniors study world literature, which became part of the curriculum for the first time last year. English literature is offered to the juniors, while the sophomores examine American literature in their classes. Freshman English is a supplement to grade school grammar and helps students to review points that they may have forgotten during the summer

FOR STUDENTS interested in speech and drama, these classes offer an expedient opportunity to communicate orally before groups in preparation for the times in their lives when they will be called upon to express their viewpoint on a subject.

TRIPS TO the library increase a student's knowledge of the many references that are at his fingertips. When a student is called upon to turn in a term paper or a short biographical sketch, he will be able to locate the information that he needs.

MANY ACTIVITIES are offered in the English department, but they all have one thing in common — they all offer the students of WHS the chance to learn, to appreciate the diversities, and to earn the benefits of speaking the English language correctly

Thumbing through the card catalog, Steve Arthur, and Sheryl Engebretson receive instruction on how to locate needed information from Mr. Don Pinney, head librarian

English is required all four years. Grammer is not the only subject covered in these classes as literature in the form of poems, plays, and novels is read and discussed in class.

Through using the SRA teaching aids, teachers have found a well coordinated program that should help students write better English compositions. These students find that hard concentration helps a great deal when they are faced with a clean sheet of paper

PERHAPS SOME students looking into the windows of the buildings west of the school might shudder at the sight of the grease in the automotives laboratory. However, to many of the boys attending WHS, automotives and other industrial arts courses offer them opportunities to explore areas of industry which they may wish to consider as a vocation. Boys are not necessarily the only students that take the industrial arts courses, though. Each year there are a couple of girls enrolled that either care to learn about how their car's engine functions or, possibly they may care to know more boys.

INCLUDING THE two units of automotives offered courses in drafting, metals and woods are available to those interested. The drafting courses include information needed by those planning to become engineers of architects. Beneficial to all boys, the woods courses give students a deeper understanding of fools, upholstery, and home repair. Later they become acquainted with common household care

WITH THE aid of dictation discs, typewriters, ditto machines, adding, mimeograph, and thermofax machines, and calculator, students can broaden their knowledge of office practices

DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION and cooperative oflice education enable students to receive instruction in office practices at school as well as the benefits of having a job during school hours.

Maps, graphs, and charts help students such as Sandra Haggard understand certain aspects of world geography. Mr. Wallace Davis stops to discuss a viewpoint of his with students during geography class.

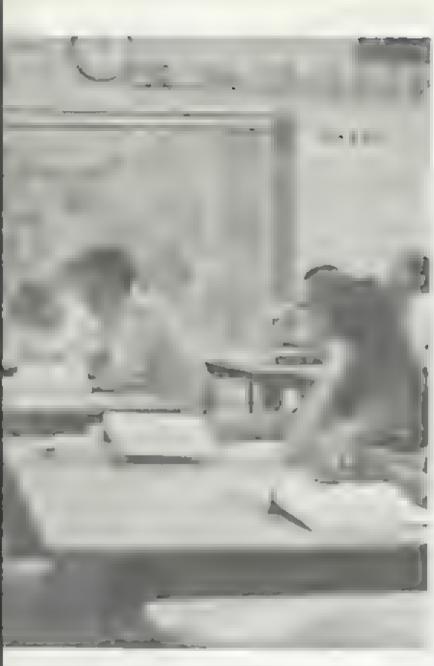

Don't be a mental dropout" is a message conveyed by a sign on the board. In world geography, students become aware of the world around them.

Pictures of foreign countries add variety to the wall of this U.5. government classroom. Government is a required course for eniors. Participation in class activities enables students to gain knowledge.

Eyes wander around the room and books are closed as the students in this U.S. government class prepare to leave before the bell rings. The map pulled down in the back ground shows the entire area of the U.SSR.

Looking questions up in the U.S. history textbook, students such as David Carroll, Chuck Cottman, and Paul Durik lind that one hour is not long enough to answer all of them.

Materials such as numerous wall maps of areas of the world, projector, and globe enable world geography teachers such as Mr. Evin Howard to illustrate their lectures to the sophomore students.

Juniors offered as 'guinea pigs' in history class

WHS JUNIORS became "guinea pigs" in their history classes this year when new units of study were added to the old curriculum. The purpose of these units was to let the students learn through involvement by separating each class into individual groups. To help make history events seem more real, the units were based upon situations taking place in certain chapters of the text. Similar situations were then presented to the students for them to solve in their individual groups. These groups represented different states in the unit called "Disunia," and different political parties in "Division"

HOLDING A trial complete with a mock jury was one of the activities in which seniors taking government participated. In November they held their annual mock senate, which showed the seniors how bills are introduced during a real Senate session. In this unit, each senior represented a real senator from each of the states. Later in the course, they learned how to complete income tax forms correctly, a task they would have to do later in their lives

THE FRESHMEN at Washington were not offered a course in social studies, but world geography was a required course for all sophomores. For those seniors interested in learning about another country's history, a course in Latin American history was offered.

the Washington High School marching band." With five shrill blasts from the whistle, the lines of band members in their tlashy new purple-and-white uniforms step out in perfect unison. WHS drum major, Mark Eggan struts out to the 50-yard line, halts, and flings his baton high into the air. A tense hush talls over the crowd as they wonder if he will successfully catch it. A cheer rises from the croud as Mark struts off to the side-lines with his baton in hand

DIRECTED BY Mr. Bill Bearden, the band practiced every morning before school during the football season. When the band competed against other high school bands in the state at Band Dav in Tucson, they received an "excellent" rating, which is equivalent to a grade of "2"

Knees bent, eyes on their music sheets, band members practice marching in the morning on the athletic field to perfect their halftone performance

FACULTY

THE FACULTY come from a wide range of places, and have many opinions to share with students. They can relate their different experiences to teaching, and this gives students an opportunity to listen to different viewpoints on a subject. Studying in Germany, Spain, Mexico, and Latin American countries, teachers learn from firsthand experience the conditions of people in other countries and inform students of what they have seen

CUSTODIANS, TEACHERS, the cafeteria staff, library staff, and members of the administration work together for a common end. That is, to educate the student, and give him every possible opportunity to better himself and instill in him the desire to keep learning extracurricular activities. Traveling, railroading, knitting, bowling, and skiing are only a few of the many activities that the faculty enjoy in their spare time.

NEW FACULTY members were in for a pleasant surprise when they attended the annual teacher's steak fry. They were served by the administration staff members.

"I DON'T BELIEVE in 'lock-stepping' because every school's curriculum can't be expected to be the same. The students in each school have different needs," said Dr. Howard T. Roberts, superintendent of the Glendale Union High School District, in answer to a query about a high school's curriculum.

Committee informs faculty of events

BECAUSE Of the size of the faculty and the fact that they work in widespread areas of the campus, many of them do not see one another for days at a time. To keep the staff informed about news, including births, deaths, illnesses and weddings, a friendship committee put out a builtein on days when there was news of significance.

COMPOSED OF Mrs. Myrtle George and Mrs. Violet Schroeder, both counselors, the committee made members of the faculty feel that they were more a part of a family and kept them better informed at the same time.

BECAUSE OF the committee, staff members and their families received cards and flowers during times in their lives when they needed condolence. The committee also helped to raise money for various worthwhile projects involving members of the staff.

EXPERIENCING ITS SECOND season at WHS, the boys' swim team strove for even more success this year after placing fifth in state competition last year. The Ram wrestlers tasted success again after winning the division title for the second year in a row WASHINGTON HIGH set a different scene after class hours when many students abandoned their books to pursue athletic goals. Out on the tennis courts, track, and football fields, team members practiced every night.

IN THE PAST fifteen years of Washington's sports history, several state championships in various sports have been attained. With every new class of students admitted to WHS come future divisional and all-state champions. It is certain that the new decade will hold more state championships for the Rams, but the future will reveal itself.

Rams have 2-7 season

A DISAPPOINTING 2-7 record was made by the WHS varsity football team. Good potential possessed by the Rams was displayed only occasionally during the season. Richard Diller, star halfback, established new school records for the most touchdowns in one season and for gaining the most total yards rushing in a season.

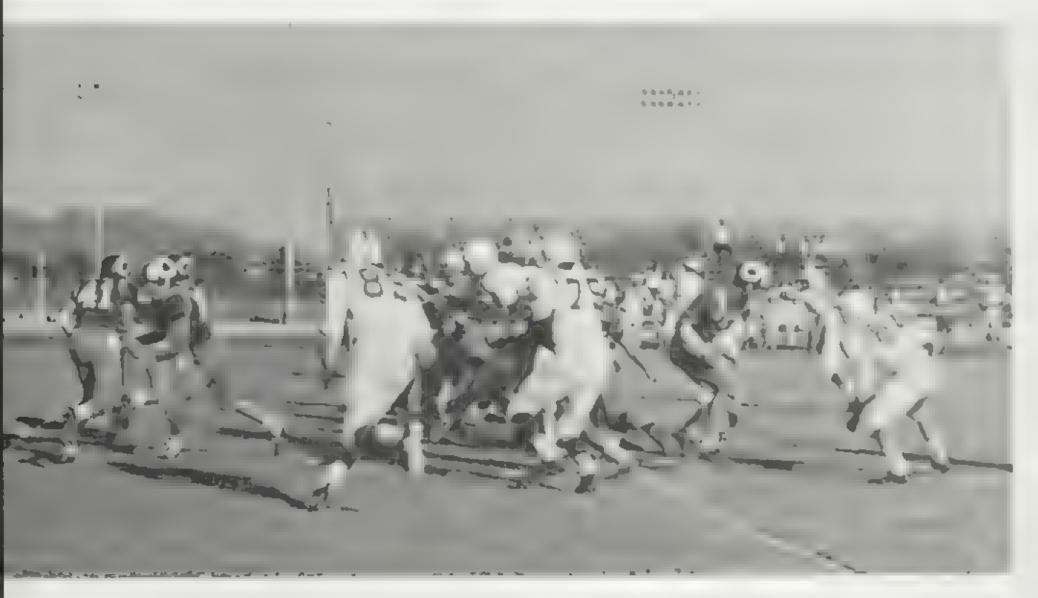

INJURIES TO key players took their toll While playing a good game against Moon Valley, cornerback John Addlesperger broke his collarbone and was lost for the rest of the season. Other injuries which slowed down the Rams were to quarterback Kevin Wright, wingback Tony Rankins, tackle John Ramsey, and linebacker John Placek. Sophomore Rick Koch took over the quarterback spot when Wright was injured in the St. Mary's game, and held the position for the remainder of the season

THE FIRST Ram victory of the year was against Moon Valley, 21-15. The Rams scored all of their points in the first half. The spectacular interception of a Moon Valley touchdown pass by Tony Rankins in the final minutes of the game preserved the victory.

THE HIGHLIGHT of the season was the final game against Brophy. The Rams fought hard and skunked the Broncos 27-0. Interceptions made by Kevin Wright and Marshall Schlink were the center of a fine defense.

TWO HEARTBREAKING losses were experienced by the Rams against flagstaff and Sunnyslope Rams lost to flagstaff 22-20 as a result of a field goal in the final seconds of the game. Against Sunnyslope, the Rams ran out of time with the ball 5 yards from a touchdown

COURAGEOUS BUT not too successful describes this year's JV football team coached by Mr. Wendell Sheets and Mr. Wil Gonzales After losing their first five games, they buckled down and managed to salvage a 3-6 season record with wins recorded over Sunnyslope, Tempe, and Glendale. Some of this year's top performers included Vogel, Okomoto, Dunda, Baca, Ellis, Cunningham, Grundy, Burnham, Milton, Meyer, and Simpson

THE BEST record held by a WHS football team this year belongs to the Freshman A (heavyweight) team. Under the supervision of coaches Tom Pagel and Jack Storey, this team breezed to a 6-2 record. Harriers take to the streets

NO MATTER how hot the fall afternoons became, Washington's cross country teams practiced every day to condition themselves for the new three-mile race course Coached by Mr. George Hester, new to WHS, the boys held practice off campus twice each week by running along various streets in Phoenix. These different routes helped to make the boys' daily minimum run of five miles more interesting

FINISHING THE season by placing fourth in their division, the varsity harriers won six of ten meets. The JV team maintained a slightly more successful season by winning six of their eight meets, and the frosh compiled a 5-3 season. Only the top seven runners represented WHS in the Skyline divisional meet. These Rams were Ed Reak, Gregg Sawyer, Rick Morrison, Phil Larson, Roger Jenkins, John Edman, and Chris Scott. At the conclusion of the season, the runners were honored at a banquet

ONE PLAYER, Dennis Northrup, who was expected to give a great deal of support to the team was injured and played in only eight games. Victories for the Rams came against Moon Valley (two), Brophy, Alhambra, and Cortez, to give them a 6-12 season

JV ROUNDBALLERS had a 10-8 season led by three outstanding scores Chris Reuter and Jim Combs, juniors, and Rich Koch, sophomore. These boys played on both the JV and varsity teams. Another outstanding JV player, Dennis Victory may be a varsity starter next year

SKYLINE DIVISION champions, the Ram wrestling team capped a successful season by sending 11 members to the state wrestling tournament.

AFTER WINNING eight out of 10 dual meets, the grapplers made a poor showing the first day of the division tournament, only to snap back the following day to win the event

NAMED OUTSTANDING WRESTLER at the division tournament, Dave Schmunk won the 110 pound class in the state tournament. Others who participated were Steve Okomoto, Joe Munoz, Lanny Little, Eric Stevens, Doug Parker, Steve Childress, John Ramsey, Larry Watkins Craig Dunda, and Pat Zachow

AT STATE Steve Childress placed second and Eric Stevens was third, giving the Rams fifth place out of 36 teams. Outstanding Ram JV wrestler was Steve Okomoto, and Pat Weidner was named outstanding frosh wrestler by Coach Dave Swerdfeger and his assistants.

6-3 was track record last year

WITH A VICTORY over a major rival team at the start of the season this year, the WHS varsity track team strove to better its last year's 6-3 record. The Rams beat Glendale with a score of 66-61, but had lost to Moon Valley's team by one point the week before. With outstanding performers such as junior Gregg Sawyer in the mile and 880-yard dash, seniors Ron Foster and John Addlesperger in the 440-yard relay, and sophomores Dennis Victor and John Tingwald in the high jump, the team hoped for a high rank in the division.

THE JV TRACKSTERS began their season by defeating the Moon Valley Rockets at the first home meet of the season. Optimistic about the whole freshman team, Coach Wendell Sheets stated, "This team is the finest group we've ever had since I've been here at Washington."

PLACING SECOND in division in 1969, the varsity baseball team had starters such as Bob Youse as pitcher, Doug Fant, outfielder, and John Pierson, Second baseman

EVEN THOUGH the first two games of WHS's 1970 season were rained out, the Rams won their third game against Sunnyslope with a score of 5-2. The second game was played against St Mary's

LONG HOURS of practice for two months before the season opened resulted in the boys receiving more individual work According to Coach Pagel, "baseball spends the longest time of any sport practicing"

EXPECTATIONS were high for the pitching crew, John Lynch, Brian Mingus, and Roger Smith, of the rams varsity baseball team because of their first victory against Sunnyslope

HIGH HOPES were held by this year's boys' tennis team as they strove to win their eighth consecutive Division title. Returning lettermen, Dan Johansen and Robin Silver, seniors, and Brit Marshall, junior, represented WHS in the city-wide West High invitational tournament. Washington tied for first when Johansen placed third in the singles and Marshall and Silver won the doubles

IUDGING from these results and the fine play of Mike Roach and Terry Thompson, seniors, the Rams tennis team were considered to be one of the top contenders in this year's state tournament. At press time, the WHS team, with new coach Jerry Kopke, were playing up to expectations as they were undefeated in season play.

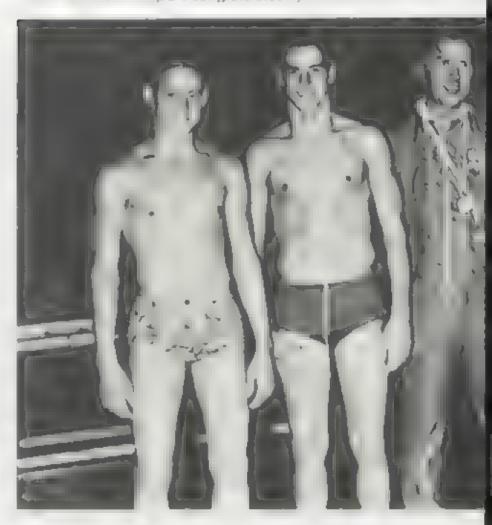

OUTSTANDING JVs this year were Bill Eddy and Marvin Etfa, sophomores, and Jeff Stegemoller, junior. They will be expected to carry the load next year, when four out of the top five players graduate

WHS swim team now 2 years old

Finishing their first year, 1969, with a 2-5 record, WHS swimmers placed fifth out of 17 triple A schools. Tom Hickcox won first place in both the 50 and 100 freestyles, Jack Grobstein won 3rd place in 100 backstroke, and Tom James won 3rd place in the 100 breaststroke.

After struggling through steaming swarms of bodies to get a clean towel, the girls had only a few minutes left to dress and groom before their last class

DESPITE THE rush, many girls enjoy the competition and sports offered in physical education. In addition, Girls Athletic Association offers competition and training after school. Sports include swimming, tennis, gymnastics, badminton, modern, and square dancing, and hockey. Juniors and seniors learn golf and archery in addition to other sports

BUBBLING WITH enthusiastic lovalty under any circumstances, Washington High's varsity cheer squad appeared frequently on the campus as they put up encouraging posters and held numerous pep rallies for the Ram teams. On the days of games against rivals such as the Cortez Colts, the six girls donned boots and carried signs saying "Stomp the Colts." Boosting team spirit even more, the cheerleaders occasionally decorated the boys' locker rooms with toilet tissue and baked goodies for the Rams to eat

SUPPORTING THEIR teams in the same fashion, the IV cheerleaders gained experience in hopes of making the varsity squad next year. Together with the varsity cheerleaders, the IVs sponsored car washes and bake sales to earn money for summer cheer camp scholarships

The fact that pep rallies could not be a first of the cheerleaders from having them. During a standard season most of the pep rallies were held in front of the WHS gym.

SILENCE SURROUNDS the football field as the stadium lights are turned off and the band's music ceases. Suddenly, the four WHS majorettes appear in front of the band with flaming batons and begin twirling with fire. Since all four twirlers have hair past their shoulders, their audience is captivated with the Homecoming performance

IHROUGHOUT THE football season, the majorettes spent many long hours after school practicing for the halftime performances. "It's a skill that takes a lot of time," commented junior Dusti Blaser. For one week during the summer, the four girls attended a camp at Thatcher, Arizona. There they learned much about twirling and had a chance to meet other majorettes and even drum majors from other parts of the state. The camp is the same one attended by Washington's pom and cheer squads

CLASSES

SPONSORING THE Homecoming dance, the senior class invited as special guests the 1969 Washington High School graduates. As an added task, they had the job of decorating for homeciming activities

JUNIORS PICKED grapefruit by the box to earn much needed money for the Junior-Senior Prom. Because the juniors revived the tradition of the Sweetheart dance, they had many money headaches

SELLING CANDY canes at Christmas and decorating for graduation, the sophomores rounded out their year's activities

TO START their treasury, the freshmen sold popcorn balls and sponsored a dance

THE HEAT was on all classes competed in the Mall Fund Drive. Preparations started on the mall during the Christmas holidays due to the fact that many students showed school spirit and contributed funds. A "Grub Day" was awarded to the seniors and sophomores for raising the most money in one of the drives

Seniors donate for WHS mall

MAKING SURE they would not be forgotten, the Class of 70 raised nearly $400 for the new WHS mail. As a reward they shared a grub day with the sophomores who raised the second highest amount. A second reward was given to the seniors later in the year

FIRST PROJECT of the year for the first graduating class of the seventies was to plan for the Homecoming dance Carrying out the theme "Age of Aquarius," they decorated with signs of the Zodiac. Chief Root Wizard and the Silvery Moon provided the music

AIDED BY their sponsors Mr. Stacy, Mrs. Lightbourn, Mrs. Morrison, Mr. West, and Mr. Wilson, the seniors chose their class colors and school song in the spring

SENIORS SPARKED an all-school movement to relax the dress code to include girls wearing slacks and longer hair for boys. Seniors also chaired many committees on student council and presided over school clubs and organizations

Sophs grub it

The sophomore class enjoyed their "grub day" they earned for being on the most generous donors to the WHS mall fund.

Elected officers for the sophomore class are Patti Hale, treasurer; Vicki Eden, vice-president, Bill McNabb, president, Lynda tanford, publicity manager, Patti Johnson, Secretary

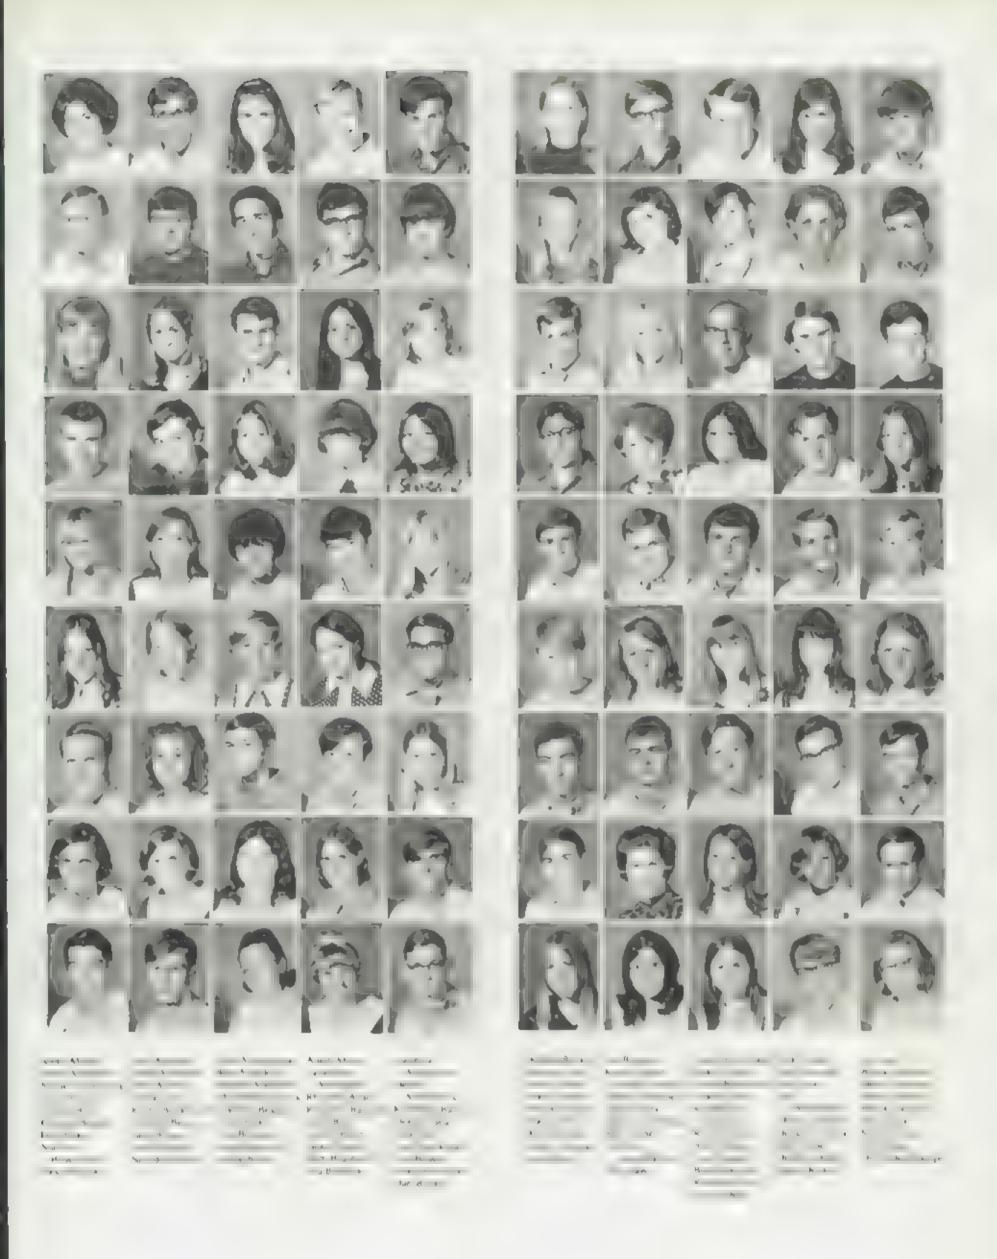

DEMONSTRATING TO the student body their stamina and school spirit, the sophomore class proved they could rate with the upperclassmen. As WHS opened its doors in September and plans for the new mall were made, the problem of raising appropriate funds arose.

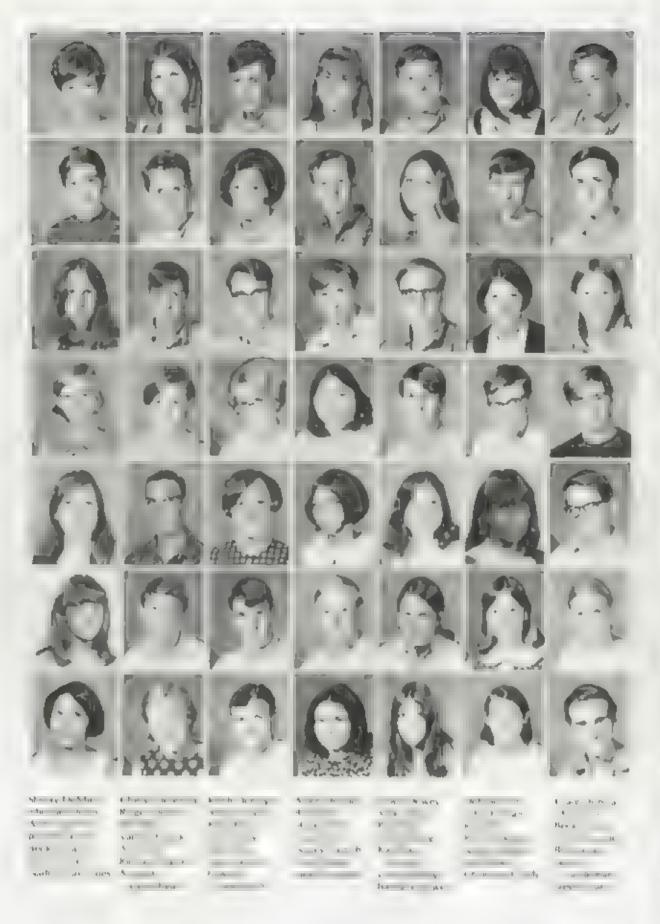

IN ADDITION to the money requested from various clubs, a contest between the classes was held. The final results of the contest showed that the seniors had raised slightly more than the sophs, therefore SC awarded each class a "grub day" for their efforts. During the holidays, Student Council held a can drive and again the classes competed against each other; seniors and sophs winning. In "Harvey," the soph members of cast and crew outnumbered other class members.

Demonstrating their "victory" formation, the J.V. cheerleaders are Patty Nulty, Sally Blaser, Cathy Ptacek, Cindy Stanford

Honors

It may have been an announcement during the morning bulletin congratulating some group for their outstanding performance. Maybe it was a glowing crown presented at halftime of a football game Perhaps it was a list of names in the showcase near the office announcing winners

Students were rewarded for scholastic achievement, knowledge of homemaking skills athletic ability, or beauty and charm. Although not everyone could win an honor, everyone was eligible for some sort of award because of the wide ranging scope of the honors program. Journalist or jumper, mechanic or Mat Maid, all sorts of people were recognized for their achievements.

WHS athletes earn accolades

IN EACH SPORT at WHS, one or two boys, because of various factors, rise to the top to the point where they may be called outstanding. In some cases it is because of obviously superior physical prowess. In other cases the boys are outstanding because of a great amount of perseverance and hard work

IO HONOR these boys the coaches present them with various awards. Sometimes it is an easy matter to decide who is tops. Other years two or three boys may seem nearly equal. A choice has been made and on these pages are presented the boys who were named as outstanding in their particular sports

The contest was sponsored by the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks who want to promote student accomplishments in high school. To do this they offer awards to students with leadership abilities who have received hons in school, held officer positions, and participated in extracurricular activities. Before receiving these awards, Lanny and Cathy were required to fill out forms describing their qualifications

"FRIEND OF the boy" is the by line of Optimists International. The civic organization sponsors a group of honor students as Optimists of the Month. Chosen for their exemplary scholarship, leadership, and citizenship abilities were Mike Roach, Lanny Little, and Rachel Miller. They were picked by the faculty honors committee, a special group of Washington High teachers. Ordinarily only two Optimists would have been chosen, but because of youth appreciation week an extra student was picked in honor of the occasion raising the total to three Optimists.

"RADIATING ENERGY and enthusiasm to people" is the definition of a spark plug. "Spark plug" was the term affectionately applied to Mrs. Graydon B. Hall, fifteen-year school board member by her colleagues.

IN 1955 when Mrs. Hall was first elected to serve on the school board, a total of 1,300 students attended the two schools in the Glendale Union High School District, Glendale and Sunnyslope High. The number of students has now soared past 10,000. In order to meet the increased enrollment, Mrs. Hall has helped to "lay the foundations" for three new schools since then

"HAVING A PART in helping students grow into young men and women ... seeing young people accomplish things," Mrs. Graydon B. Hall enthusiastically said when questioned about why she served for fifteen years on the school board, longer than any other member

Connie Meister is 'Crocker' girl

IN DECEMBER, about thirty senior girls at WHS took a test in home economics vying for the Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow title. At the end of January, Mrs. Margaret Rourke received the letter which informed her that of the thirty girls, Connie Meister had become Washington's Homemaker of Tomorrow. Her test scores were then compared with those from other schools for state awards

AT THE AGE of five, Connie began cooking in the kitchen. Later she joined a 4-H club and participated in demonstrations for the county. At WHS, Connie became a student home ec assistant when she was a sophomore and helped again as a senior TEACHING BROTHERHOOD and understanding, Anytown tries to dispel big and little prejudices. Discussions on human relations helped students to analyze prejudices they might have and to learn to be more compassionate towards their fellow man.

REPRESENTING WASHINGTON HIGH School at Anytown, Arizona, Paul Ray, Ed Zorn, Alavne Rosenburg, and Becky Bogdan had to fill out an application blank listing their reason for wishing to attend the community during the summer months.

PROJECTS AND DISCUSSIONS required much of the student's time, but there were many chances for gooting around and socializing with members from other schools throughout Arizona. Mixing with people from other races and religions, students that attended workshops held in Prescott also learned the fundamental ideals of democracy. Student Council helped to pay part of the delegate's expenses while they attended these meetings

TO START a new decade off right, students chosen to represent Washington High School at the Girls and Boys State session had a bigger task of learning something that guided them in the years ahead

LEADERSHIP AND CITIZENSHIP were more than just words to the judges who picked Debbie Batsell Rachel Miller, and Laurie Burruss, Doug Fant, Steve Newmark, and Mike Bradley to represent WHS at Flagstaff and Tucson, they were necessary attributes that the students had to have

OUTSTANDING STUDENTS worked in groups at these sessions by forming parties and electing officers at the various positions of government. Clubs pick girls as sweethearts

HONORING GIRLS across the campus, clubs and organizations chose lovely lasses to be their sweethearts. In some cases, these girls represented their groups at functions such as the FFA horse show

IN OTHER cases the girls appeared in the Lettergirls' calendars which were sold in January. Some clubs elected one of their members to represent the group, and other clubs such as FFA put candidates through tests including milking a goat before they were chosen

Aquarius theme enlivens events

PRESENTING HALFTIME ceremonies that included twelve floats representing each of the zodiac signs, the 1969 Homecoming was set to the theme "The Age of Aquarius." Beginning their reign as Washington's new Homecoming King and Queen, Tony Rankins and Toby Stapley received their crowns from last year's royal couple, Tony Evans and Elaine Wishart. This was the first year that the football players that were also Homecoming attendants were allowed to leave the locker rooms and take part in halftime activities

TO CARRY out the astrological theme, Student Council assigned the twelve signs of the zodiac to the clubs on campus for float themes. Although difficulties arose when a few of the WHS clubs still did not have a flatbed for their float one week before Homecoming, total participation by club members, frantic last minute planning and loss of sleep by club presidents finally resulted in twelve finished floats on Friday night

Clubs

That organizations can work together for a common cause was proven several times during the year as campus groups joined to toil for a common cause. Homecoming began the joint ventures as different clubs were assigned a sign of the zodaiac as a theme for their Homecoming floats to go along with the "Age of Aquarius" motif. Clubs also pooled their efforts for moneymaking projects such as the new mall. Groups that had seemed to be mactive gained new momentum in working on campus problems. Whether they were sponsoring a horse show, taking tests for radio licenses, or playing soccer, the groups provided a chance to socialize, increased the students knowledge, and provided a service to others

ATTENDANCE AT a statewide German Club Convention in Tucson gave students interested in the classical traditions of the language an opportunity to meet other people with the same objective.

Home arts big for girls in FHA

Pinning, button-holing, sewing, are needed skills for a girl preparing to make a dress. FHA gives girls the opportunity to practice the domestic arts in a home environment

NO MATTER what a girl will do after she graduates from WHS, she will need to be able to cook, clean, and sew a little. Taking care of a large home or a small apartment require homemaking "know-how." The Future Homemakers of America will acquire a keen sense of consumer buying, budgeting, and improved housekeeping abilities. To top the year homemakers gave a tea for the faculty at WHS to show their wares.

Members of FTA want to teach

CORRECTING TESTS, helping prepare assignments, watching over students while the teacher is away are all responsibilities that a WHS senior receives when she serves as a teacher's assistant.

While her teammates stretch and loosen up their muscles below her, sophomore Judy Woods executes a graceful handstand on the balance beam about four feet above the gym floor

THREE NEW state championship banners earned by the girls' gymnastics team were added to those already hanging in the gym this year. The state titles were achieved in 1966, 1967, and 1969, but funds raised for the banners did not cover the total cost of all three until last year

OUTSTANDING MEMBERS of this year's team included all-round gymnasts Debbie Sticht, Bonnie Cline, and Dariece Harwood, seniors, and Judy Woods, sophomore. Each of these girls performed in the balance beam, uneven parallel bars, vaulting, and floor exercise events.

OTHER MEMBERS of the team such as Connie Bentley, Robin Draghli, Maxine Mitchell, Peggy Sweeney, Debbie Oleson, Gail Yaeger, and Cindy Weiss performed on the tramp. The girls that did routines on the beam were Gail Perry, Sylvia Wolf, Debbie Borgo, Jan Julius, and Toni Phillips

Although most of the girls perform on the apparatus during the gymnastics meets, much of their time is spent tumbling on the mats

Perched atop the vaulting horse, Debbie Sticht stands on her hands just as easily as if she were on her own two feet

Clown game adds to club treasury

BALLS RICOCHETTING from the basketball rim could be seen during the Harlem Clowns game which was sponsored by Lettermen's Club. Members sponsored a league of football, basketball, and track games in various grade schools throughout the valley. Acting as referees, timekeepers, and scorers for the no-tackle football games, members kept busy during the school year

PROMOTING BETTER Athletic development within the school, the Lettermen's club gives scholarships to deserving athletes. Money for these projects was raised by the annual Lettermen Talent Show and the Harlem Clowns basketball game

ELECTED OFFICERS are John Addlesperger, president; Howard Varner, treasurer; Robin Silver, secretary; and John Ramsey, sergeant-at-arms. The sponsor for this year was Mr. Dave Swerdleger

Lettergirls sell 'girly' calendars

A NEW FUND-raising project was tried out by the Lettergirls Club this year — that of selling calendars. Many of the campus clubs sponsored a girl whose picture appeared in the calendar. After investing over $300 getting 200 calendars published, the Lettergirls Club only earned approximately $75

PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE, new to the Lettergirls meetings, confused the members at first. Later, discussions became more organized when the girls understood the prodecures better. After their meetings, the Lettergirls and Lettermen had playdays in the gym. A version of basketball was played, with rules allowing occasional tackles.

PRESIDING OVER meetings were president, Debbie Sticht; vice-president, Bonnie Cline; secretary, Debbie Batsell; treasurer, Cathy Junk; publicity manager, Peggy McMahon, sergeant-at-arms, Pam Sechrist

Even though Lettergirls' meetings were held at night many girls such as Janet Jones, Kathy Murphy, Kaye Killebrew, Cathy Junk, and Kay Bodewin attended these meetings regularly

Newspaper has boy, girl editors

AFTER ATTENDING Publications Workshop in Flagstaff during the summer, Debbie Wright, first semester editor of the Ram Page, returned with new ideas for the first issue.

WORKING WITH page editors, she outlined aims for the newspaper which included working with student council on projects.

A NEW PRINTER was among items the staff had to adjust to and trips to Peoria became a regular problem. Deadlines were always hectic but most of the staff would somehow pull through in time to send their copy to the printer.

THE NEW SEMESTER brought a new editor according to a prearranged plan as managing editor Steve Newmark moved up to editor-in-chief.

OTHER STAFFERS were Carol Daniels, Jeri Towner, Lee Hawley, Debbie Batsell, Cathy Junk, Ed Roeser, Joe Browner, Greg Sprott, Debbie Elman, Karl Wolz, Jim Freeman, Robin Hochstadter, Cheryl Keslar, Harry Kulwin, Barbara Nelson, and Howard Lepinski

staff members, Russette Basham, Becki Dwiggins, and Shirley Long, work hours after school to help the yearbook swing into the 70's.

A STRONG desire to make the year-book cover as good as last year's prompted co-editors Laurie Kuelbs and Manya Long into undertaking the job of raising approximately $200. Wanting students to be proud of their annual, they convinced Mr. Robert Winthrop, yearbook advisor, that they were capable of earning the sum that was needed

PICKING ORANGES, selling plastic covers for the yearbook, and a bake sale were the methods used by the staff members to earn the money. The school colors of purple and white were decided upon by the collectors at the beginning of the year.

ACCENTING THEIR theme "Swinging into the 70's", the girls used for the first time: unjustified left set for the divider pages, and italicized names.

Staff members, Brit Marshall, Paula Wlotney, Stacey Anderson, Evn Brannon Lisa Lee, and Lee Weinstein, inspect last year's annual to gain idea, and to obtain further knowledge as to how a yearbook is put together.

THE STAFF members put in more than 50 hours each and contributed much towards this year's annual. More than 20 people signed up at the beginning of the year to work on the yearbook and approximately ten stuck it out through the whole school year. These people were Stacey Anderson, Russette Basham, Lyn Brannon, Lisa Lee, Shirley Long, Brit Marshall, Alavne Rosenberg, Fave Williamson, Cathy Whitney, Paula Whitney, and Ellen Yosowitz

SOME Of the yearbook was planned during the summer but most of the lavouts, body copy, captions, and pictures could only be done during the school year. Mr. Frank Taylor, photo teacher, despite lack of student photographers, helped to make the Panorama a successful one. He took pictures that blow up the layout designs and compliment the general scheme of the pages

The yearbook is put out by many hours of work after school Colection, Afanya Long, works on captions while Shirley fong and Stacy Anderson work like "busy bees" on pictures

Chorus presents autumn concert

Chorus director, Mr. Philip Shaw, counts out four beats in a measure as he writes the bars of a song on the blackboard for students to see. Good rhythm is essential in singing a song

"A TIME for us," were the words of the Romeo and Juliet theme song that chorus members sang at the autumn choral concert. In a more patriotic spirit, the chorus members marched up to the stage singing "The Stars and Stripes Forever" while they carried miniature flags. Robin Ross and the Johnny Wilson Quartet provided a jazz beat to the concert.

THE 1969-70 chorus officers were Joe Gulleys, president; Cindy Hall, vice-president; Jerri Spooner, secretary; Dan Costello, treasurer; and Vonnie Steel, publicity manager. First hours' offices were all held by Robin Ross and anyone that objected was not allowed in the class (she was the only one in the class)

Pep Club float wins for second year

HOMECOMING THEME "Age of Aquarius" spirited Pep Club and Key Club members into winning first place in the annual float contest for the second year in a row. Long hours put in by members paid off as the winning float "Libra" won first place

APPLES, ORANGES, and candy were the "goodies" that Pep Club supplied the hungry Rams with after games. Gigantic crash posters and decorated goal posts became part of the tradition of Pep Club members.

TO SUPPORT their pledge to raise money for the mall fund drive, members sold "giant cookies." Planning projects to raise money became a major source of activity for members.

DURING THE week before Easter, the girls planned and then participated in the annual tricycle races and egg throwing contest. To top off the week they wore "bunny ears and tails" around school.

OFFICERS OF Pep Club are Posey Moore, president; Denise Reynolds, vice-president; Kathy Fisher, secretary, Kathy Hoyer, treasurer; Jeanne Hasbach, publicity manager, and Shelley Foglton, sergeant-at-arms. Sponsors are Mrs. Suzanne Whitlock, and Mrs. Jan Howard

Even though GAA promotes better sportsmanship, sophs Linda Holmes and Cheryl Spooner portray fierce determination in their basketball game.

Speed-a-way was one of the sports played in GAA. The girls competed as a class against the other classes.

GAA girls use new point system

THE GIRLS' Athletic Association provided girls with a chance to earn awards for competing in numerous sports such as archery, basketball, volleyball, track, and fencing. Competition for all-star pins began in the PE classes where class winners were determined. These winners played other class winners, and the top four girls received charms or pins.

WEEKLY MEETINGS allowed GAA members to participate in a sport and earn points for every afternoon spent. Awards were presented to deserving girls according to how many points each had accumulated. A new method of awarding the points was developed this year. To prevent some girls from signing up for competition and then failing to appear the next week, a "block system" was devised Each girl that signed up for a sport would receive a block of ten points only after she had attended the three meetings devoted to that sport. Headed by Paula Munday, president, the GAA officers included Chelly Schupbach, vice-president; Debbie Kitchens, treasurer; Tedra Hulsey, corresponding secretary; Bambi Hefner, recording secretary; Cathy Valdez, publicity manager.

Classes offer chance to learn

COE sold suckers in an attempt to raise money for their treasury. Karen Blake senior buys one to eat before class.

'VECA helps youth grow' is demonstrated as Mr. John Stoeckel talks to students BY SELLING suckers and "Snoopy Dogs," COE and DECA earned money for their treasuries. The money raised from these projects enabled the clubs to sponsor a needy family at Thanksgiving and Christmas and give a banquet for the COE girls' employers at the end of the school year.

THE FOUR programs at Washington that enable students to get a job and earn money while they are still in school are Cooperative Office Education, COF, Distributive, Education, Industrial Cooperative Education, and Agricultural Cooperative Education. COE classes offer girls a chance to learn secretarial work. Distribution, marketing, and sales techniques are taught in DE classes, while ICE offers opportunities for drafting experience. ACE offers jobs in the field of agriculture

VOCATIONAL CLASSES such as ICE, DE, COE, and ACE meet for only part of the day, so that students have a chance to work in offices and stores the other half of the day. Members of these classes travel to all parts of the state, in order to attend Arizona conventions where state officers are elected

Congratulations
Seniors of 1970

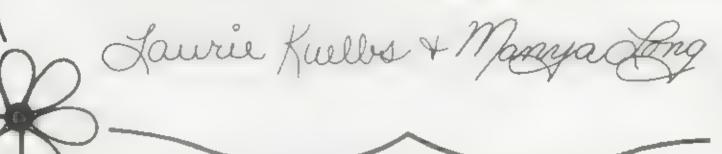

Brought to you by us

This yearbook was completed, believe it or not, amidst the turmoil of pom tryouts, Spikettes and track meets, dance practices, and frequent emotional outbursts. Your book has driven us to the orange groves, bitten fingernals, Peona, and to church Splashing through the irrigated football field, climbing the campus trees, and having orange fights were only a few of the results of trying to work constructively on Saturday afternoons. Nevertheless, this year has honestly proven to be one of the most challenging and rewarding years of our lives.

Our deepest gratitude is extended to Mr. Robert Winthrop, our advisor, for his patience and encouragement throughout the year; even when his room was teepeed. Our thanks also goes to Mr. Frank Taylor and his assistants, who took complete charge of all photography. And finally our congratulations and gratitude to those on our staff who "stuck it out"—Lynn Brannon, Lei Weinstein, Lisa Lee, Shirley Long, Stacey Anderson, Russette Basham, Brit Marshall, Cathy Whitney, Paula Whitney, and Alayne Rosenburg. We editors wish the best of luck and happiness to all future editors
